"HUMAN FLY" IN THRILLING CLIMBS

HARRY H. GARDINER MADE MORNING STUNTS LOOK EASY.

FITFUL RAINS KEEP EARLY CROWDS SMALL

Bright Dawn, Then Clouds, Then Clear Again at Noon, Kept People Guessing on Weather.

See the little fly,
How he crawls.
Up the walls
And yet he never falls.
And the little fly didn't have anything much on "The Human Fly," who made his first climb at 11:15 o'clock today. Of course, when the little fly sees the rain coming he bites persons on the nose for spite; but "the Human Fly" didn't do anything like that.

He just refused to go over the metal cornice of the First National Bank building by way of precaution, for, you know, there is only one "human fly," while there are millions of little flies.

At 10:30 the crowd was all there. In the rear and close to the building where fine summer hats could be kept from the fitful showers, stood the women. Further out on the road were the men, with their eyes turned toward the First National Bank building. In the front were the irrepressible small boys, bent on getting first-hand information as to the methods of the "king of climbers." They played tag and chased each other in and out of the crowd, but always returned to the vantage point—the first row.

Finally, Harry H. Gardiner, "The Human Fly," appeared, dressed in an ordinary suit, with a gray fedora hat on his head and a pair of what-looked-to-be tennis shoes on his feet.

Changed Fronts Suddenly.

He decided to climb the Nodaway Valley Bank first, so there was a general movement of the crowd to the opposite corner. The women found themselves on the front row, but the small boys soon deprived them of the honor and made a new "front row."

Mr. Gardiner, without any preliminaries, climbed the first story and stood on the metal cornice to address the crowd. He told it that, owing to the rain, the metal work on the building made climbing very dangerous. He then "shinnied" up the second story now pulling the weight of his body with his four fingers caught in the crevice of the wall, and now drawing himself skyward by means of his feet. Anyway, he arrived on top and was greeted by a small boy who preferred the higher view.

Mr. Gardiner climbed down and then crossed the street to the First National Bank building which he climbed with perfect ease, refusing, however, to risk his life on the metal cornice and the tin roof because of the rain.

He explained that the gases from smoke and other evaporations in the air collect on tin until it becomes slimy and greasy. He never trusts to metal in wet weather. Extra thrills were promised for the afternoon if it would just clear off.

Shows How He Does It.

On the Nodaway Valley building, as had been announced, Mr. Gardiner gave a close-hand exhibition of how his feats are performed. He is able to lift himself with ease if he has as much as a half-inch hold upon a ledge with his fingers. At a cornice he gives an exhibition of how to get over a projecting ledge even if it is thirty stories above the street.

Hanging by his fingers, he starts to swinging with his feet and body until he can throw the feet over after which he crawls over with the rest of his body. He stops in his climbs frequently to address the crowd. He called for a cheer for the flag today after announcing the rest of his climbs.

Upon reaching the top of the Nodaway Valley Bank building and while standing on the edge, he leaned over and told the crowd that if someone would go over to his room in the hotel and get his "sky hooks" he would go higher. He also warned the crowd to keep out from under him, least he should fall on them. Both buildings this morning were descended as well as ascended in the climbs.

Wouldn't Take Chances.

Harry H. Gardiner is not a man to take chances and is an advocate of safety first, which was demonstrated this afternoon when he refused to climb the face of the Michau building.

The heavy showers this morning has made the buildings here very hard to cope with and after attempting to go from the ledge of a second story window to the top of the window announced that he could not climb the building without endangering his life.

Instead of the Michau building he climbed the Robinson building across the street, ocupied by the Pearson Pharmacy. Gardiner's manager went to the top of the building and examined the cornice and stayed until "the Human Fly" reached the top. He then reclimbed the Nodaway bank building.

He promised the crowd some real thrills at 5 o'clock when he was to climb the courthouse tower.

NOTES of TODAY

"Gosh," said one fellow after he had watched Gardiner for a time, "if everyone was like that fellow, the ladder manufacturers would have to go out of business, wouldn't they?"

No other entertainment was necessary during the day for the intermissions since they were working again today on the Farmers Trust company building. When it was not raining there was always a full crowd standing at that corner.

The rain which started at 10 o'clock drove the band to the shelter of the courthouse balcony after the second number had been given. Two more numbers there and the rain was over for a time, so that the band moved back into the band stand.

The crowd began coming early and by 9:30 a regular Saturday crowd was on the streets. At 11 o'clock the streets were well jammed. Main street between Third and Fourth was roped off and the congestion on the other streets leading to the square became very troublesome.

The bluest man in Nodaway county was W. R. Jackson, secretary of the Commercial club, at 9 o'clock this morning when it clouded up after having been such a perfect morning in promise. He began to feel better about 11 o'clock but the overcast sky kept everyone uneasy.

When a fellow really "has the goods" and delivers them, isn't it strange how people will slip around and try to discredit him. Many were seen to rub their hands over tin surfaces after his morning performance, during which Gardnier said that the rain made it difficult and dangerous to climb over the tin cornices.

Gardiner expressed the hope while making one of the climbs that the city of Maryville would have an 18 and 20-story building to offer when he returns next year for a climb.

One of the big surprises of the day was the appearance of M. M. Baker with his "Barnard Jitney." It is an old cart with a Bull Ox as the motive force. This was appropriately used as the conveyance for carrying the flag pole in the parade.

"The Human Fly" did not awe, astonish and take the breath away from as many people as they thought that he would. He makes his climbing look so easy that many seemed to think that any boy with a good nerve and a pair of tennis shoes on could do it. But the important fact is that Gardiner is really and truly the only man who is getting away with this feat although he has been at it for thirteen years.

LINCOLN SURPRISED

4-4 TIE BY FUNK'S FEDS ON THE WESTERN LEAGUERS.

MARYVILLE $80 IN HOLE

Poor Support for Even High Class Ball —Playing Stanberry Red Sox Today.

The Maryville Feds played the Lincoln Western league team to a 4-4 tie yesterday afternoon before a small crowd. The game was called at the end of the ninth inning to allow the Western leaguers to catch the 4:44 Burlington train.

Lincoln was the first to score, pushing across two runs in the second inning with three hits and two men hit by pitched balls. This was Thieman's only bad inning and he kept the hits well scattered after that. Lincoln made another run in the fourth by a hit and two errors. The visitors' final run in the fifth was the result of a base on balls and two hits.

The Feds lost two good chances to tally by poor base running. They broke into the scoring in the fourth, getting two runs on three errors and a fielder's choice. The Feds scored again in the eighth by an error and two hits. The tying run was made in the ninth when Thieman singled, went to third on an unsuccessful attempt to force him at second, and scored on Tilson's single.

The Feds played good ball with their strengthened line-up, outhitting their league opponents 9 to 8, and making only three errors to Lincoln's seven. Wahling from Kansas City caught the game for Maryville, and Walker and Cowal were secured from Stanberry, Walker playing third and Cowal taking left field.

The Fed management is trying to give the Maryville fans a chance to see good baseball games and they should be supported. On account of the light attendance yesterday they went about $80 in the hole. The Stanberry Red Sox come here for the third game of their series with the Feds today.

Score by innings:

	R.	H.	E.
Lincoln .....020 110 000—	4	8	7
Maryville .....000 200 011—	4	9	3

Summary: Two base hits—Wahling, Stephens. Stolen bases—Williams 2, Carlisle, McCoy. Bases on balls—Off Thieman 3, off Brown 1. Struck out—By Thieman 2, by Brown 4. Hit by pitcher—By Thieman 2. Left on bases—Lincoln 9, Maryville 8.

G. A. R. ENJOY THE DAY

RECRUITING STATION HELD AND DINNER IS SERVED.

Captain Charles Hyslop Reproduces Civil War Scene Assisted by His Comrades.

While the crowds were enjoying the sunshine of the streets today, twenty-two of the old soldiers were in the Knights of Pythias hall celebrating the birth of Old Glory in a manner peculiar to their generation.

The Women's Relief Corps was busy supplying the veterans with steaming coffee and "hard tack," and the old veterans themselves were swapping stories of war time, helped along by an occasional song and the music of a phonograph.

They sat around in little groups, listening to the songs that used to stir them to action. When "The Red, White and Blue" was being played, the remark made oftenest was "That certainly is a fine tune to march on." Then followed a long train of reminiscences of the days of '61.

Three boys, Merle, Wyatt and Stephen Allison, sang a number of the old songs, among them "Just Before the Battle, Mother." This brought tears to the eyes of the old soldiers and one of them said that in his regiment this song vied with "The Girl I Left Behind Me" in popularity.

A recruiting office of the Civil war was reproduced for a time this morning. Capt. Charles E. Hyslop played the recruiting officer. The fife and drum corps consisted of J. E. O'Neal, fifer; Mel Atherton, snare drummer, and Noah Sipes, bass drummer. Bert Benbow and A. R. Souers were guards.

The new sale pavilion of the Bellows farm was built to hold 1,000 people. It was crowded yesterday. The dinner furnished by the Bellows firm was served to more than 500. This is offered only to those from a distance, so the real significance of the day may be obtained.

Yesterday's sale was the thirteenth annual offering of pure bred Shorthorns and every sale has increased in size and importance. It has come to be one of the annual events in Maryville as well as on the Bellows farm.

Every state in the cattle raising territory was represented here yesterday. The record for last year, which was the best sale until yesterday, was an average of $513.65 for fourteen bulls, and $567.60 for twenty-three cows.

The top price yesterday was paid by McMillan & McMillan, Lodi, Wis., for a red cow and calf. The bidding went to them at $2,250. The new highest price was $2,100 for another red cow and calf by the same firm. The same firm also paid $2,000 for still another red cow and calf.

PERMANENT DEMOCRATIC CHAIRMAN PRAISES WILSON.

SOME GOOD SARCASM TOO

Republican Platform Analyzed to Show Many Achievements Were Ignored.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

St. Louis, June 15.—In his speech as permanent chairman of the Democratic National Convention here today Senator Ollie M. James of Kentucky made a strong attack on the Republican platform adopted at Chicago a week ago.

He said that in calling the rural credits law proposed by the administration "ineffective" the convention charged practically every Republican in the senate and almost every Republican in the house with having voted for an "ineffective law," for in the senate the vote on the measure was 57 to 5, and in the house 295 to 10.

He added sarcastically:

"I suppose this denunciation of their fellow Republicans was caused by the fact that of the five Republicans in the senate who voted against the rural credits bill which passed that body, Senators Lodge, Oliver and Wadsworth were members of the subcommittee that prepared the Republican platform, and they were anxious to vindicate their own vote at the cost of denouncing their Republican colleagues."

He accused the Republicans in congress of being forced to vote for Democratic measures, citing the trade commission bill and the Clayton anti-trust law

The federal reserve bank act, "the one great achievement of the Democratic administration which was bitterly opposed to a majority of the Republicans" in congress, he said, "is not denounced or even honored with respectful mention in the Republican platform."

"Anxious as is the Republican party for an issue," he added, "they most respectfully declined this one."

Taking up the Republican platform declaration for a continuous policy of national defense he said there had been only two propositions in our history for a continuous naval policy. One was made by the general board in 1903 and hidden in the archives until Secretary Daniels published it, he declared, while the second is the five year program advocated by the present administration.

The major part of Mr. James' speech consisted of a eulogy of President Wilson, a laudatory account of his administration, with especial emphasis on Mexico and the European war and an argument that the nation's prosperity is due in its origin to Democratic national policies and depends upon them for its continuance.

Bulletin.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Washington, June 15.—President Wilson selects Vance McCormick, former mayor of Harrisburg, Pa., to succeed McCombs as chairman of the National Democratic Committee.

St. Louis, June 15.—The Democratic National Convention decided after a lively battle this morning that the candidates will be nominated tonight and the convention will take a permanent adjournment. The fight over the proposition in the committee on rules delayed the opening of the convention.

The subcommittee of the committee on rules votes against the change but were overruled by the whole body. The contention has been all along that to adjourn earlier than Friday night would be breaking a pledge with St. Louis, which put up $100,000 to bring the convention to that city.

The committee decided at first that original program should be adhered to, after the meeting had been torn by a stormy session. Meanwhile, however, the big party leaders held a conference and decided that the insistent demand of the delegates for speed must be met.

In consequence of this decision, they notified the rules committee that the Baltimore convention rules would have to be followed, with the nominations preceding the adoption of the platform. The nominations will start tonight at 9 o'clock.

Glynn called the convention to order at 11:50 this morning, after which Archbishop John J. Glennon of St. Louis offered the opening prayer. The credentials committee's report was adopted and Senator Ollie James of Kentucky was made permanent chairman of the convention. His address appears in another column.

Wilson Won't Come Friday.

Washington, June 15.—President Wilson definitely decided today that he would not go to St. Louis to appear before the convention tomorrow.

St. Louis, June 15.—Americanism today continued to be the keynote of the Democrats in the convention, and it was made a slogan for the campaign. The second day of the convention is designed to emphasize it.

Leaders subjected strong pressure to permit proceedings to be shortened but the convention managers insist that contracts will not permit the change of program. After a lively skirmish the managers ruled.

Opposition to the renomination of Vice President Marshall was flattened and Sullivan will probably withdraw.

Suffragists Make Strong Fight.

By dangling ninety-one electoral votes from the twelve states which have granted equal suffrage in exchange for Democratic support, three groups of suffragists are making a struggle for the ballot before the Democratic platform committee.

Arthur Dodge appeared for the antis and declared that his organization represented a large majority of women

"Maryville Nodaway County Fair."

Hurrah for the fair, the county fair,
Yes a greater one than elsewhere.
The one with all things very new,
Those big horse shows and races too
Many free attractions will be seen
In the county fair of nineteen sixteen.

Our county fair is one of the very best,
The "Fairest of Fairs" holds great success.
Herds of cattle of immense sizes
Are the ones that bring the prizes.
To receive the ribbons and money, too,
You must bring your ponies along with you.

The baby show is in the Floral Hall,
Near the fancy work which hangs on the wall.
The vegetables you see piled in a row
Are from our own state, not Idaho.
Make your entries the very first day,
This day is for you, no charges to pay.

The big hogs two feet across the back
Will be shown on the race track.
The poultry, just hear the roosters crow
Are there room for any more? No! No!
The posting sheets are flying all around
And catalogs lie thick on the ground

The "Great Fussner" is a first class attraction
And I am sure he will give satisfaction.
The "Aerial See Saw Act," I am anxious to see,
Besides, how wonderful the "Tower" must be.
We ddn't see those fire works last fall,
Not like this acting on a fire ball.

Blanche McKenny-Hunter, all over creation
Has taken her "Dog and Racing Combination."
The little "High Dive Dog" whirling in the air
Will not come a miss in the county fair.
Her chariot race is a beautiful sight,
And her "High School Horses" act just right.

The "Dellamead Troupe" and "Posing Act"
They are fine and there's nothing they lack.
The Comedy Auto Act" is what you will like
It beats the "Baboon" riding on a bike.
The "Ferris Wheel Girls" with all their skill
Will do their best while in Maryville.

This fair has the Fourth Regiment Band
Which we hold as the pride of our land.
Seeing the Merry-Go-Round, children roar,
They wish to ride for an hour or more.
Folks you can get lunch at any stand,
Pop, lemonade and everything grand.
Friends come in your autos, don't fret,
The roads will be dry, of course, not wet.
Everything in this fair is run just so
And not like that of years ago.
Of all the thirty days in September
These six days you will remember.

The happiest days of your life will be
To the county fair which you will see.
A splendid time to each and all
I am wishing you to have at our fair this fall.
Get a season ticket and a good seat
Then you'll shout, "It couldn't be beat."

CROPS SPOTTED AROUND PARNELL

F. L. Hart Talks on Conditions to St. Joseph Journal.

F. L. Hart, a successful stockman and farmer operating near Parnell, Mo., was in today with a load of cattle and hogs of his own feeding. Mr. Hart owns a choice strip of land in Nodaway county and is one of the prosperous feeders of that section. "Crops in my neighborhood are rather spotted," reported Mr. Hart. "Some of the corn on the hill land looks fine, but that on the bottoms looks very bad in places. Some of it will have to be replanted and quite a bit of it has been washed out. Our hay crop is fine and farmers have been able to put it up without being damaged."

FARMERS READ ADS

ONE OF LARGEST FIELDS FOR ALERT BUSINESS.

BEST IN COUNTY PAPER

For Readers Know Editor and Have Confidence in His Publication.

The farmer is one of the biggest arguments for the use of advertising space for his own selling and buying needs, according to Herbert F. McDougal, editor of Profitable Farming magazine, St. Joseph, Mo.

"He is the greatest consumer of advertising in the country," declares McDougal. "He reads more advertising and gets more out of it. He perhaps buys more wares as a result of advertising than does any other man. He himself is an ever present example of the force of advertising—but he doesn't learn well the lesson of himself. He doesn't take advantage of advertising in the transaction of his own business. Pick up your county paper and prove that to your own satisfaction.

"And all this, too, when the farmer has right at hand the cheapest and best possible medium for his business—this aforesaid county newspaper. It is an invited guest in the most of the homes of the county, being bought and paid for because it is valued. Having made the investment in the paper, the farmer makes the most of it; he reads it carefully. It is not like a handbill obtruded upon his notice, nor a circular that comes uninvited to the home. He reads it when he is in a happy and receptive mood; at night when he sits down for well earned rest and wishes to refresh his mind. He has confidence in the paper because he knows the people written about, and he knows the editor. Time and again he has checked up the news in the paper and found it correct. The country editor cannot afford to make a mistake.

"And this confidence in the paper carries over to the advertising which is nothing more nor less than news of barter and trade. He believes it, and the advertiser is easily accessible. If the matter is advantageous to him, it has done its work, the farmer buys or sells.

"But when the farmer himself has needs that must come before the public, does he take advantage of the county paper? Not so much as would be profitable to him, but he is doing it more and more. He is learning that a little advertising will make quick sales, or bring quick offerings to him if he wishes to buy. It finds his stray stock; gets him a supply of timothy seed when he otherwise would have to drive about the country seeking it; markets his alfalfa locally; disposes of his breeding stock of poultry and stock—is a cheap errand boy for him at a small cost.

"When this editor picks up a country paper and finds therein a lot of advertising of farmers, he knows that agriculture there is in a satisfactory condition, that farm business is going on, and that prosperity has taken off its wraps and will stay awhile."

CEMENT POSTS AT 13 CENTS

Farmer Tells How Cheap and Durable Fencing Is Made by Him.

A re-inforced cement fence post 4x5 inches square at the bottom and 6 feet long, costs J. B. Parmelee of Iowa Falls, Iowa, just 13 cents, made at odd times, according to an article in the current number of Profitable Farming magazine, St. Joseph, Mo.

Mr. Parmelee bought a 10-post form, uses two sacks of cement to the ten posts, mixes them one part cement, two parts gravel, three parts sharp, clean sand. He makes the mixture fairly wet, puts an inch deep in the bottom of the mold, lays in his reinforcing wires, fills to an inch of the top, puts in two more wires, and then finishes filling. He uses No. 8 wire and soaps the molds before filling in order to make the posts smooth and finished. It takes two hours to make ten posts, and then he leaves them in the form for three or four days, removing them then to stack them to cure. It is safe to set them at the end of three months, placing them 30 to 36 inches in the ground. The fencing is attached by tying on with wire, like a telephone wire to an insulator.

HOPKINS MAYOR BUYS FARM

C. E. Donlin Expects to Start First Class Dairy Business Near Home Town.

C. E. Donlin, mayor of this city and cashier of the bank of Hopkins, has long since cherished ambitions to become a hoary-handed son of toil (by proxy, of course) and now his fond ambition is to be realized. Sam Robbins, the real estate man, this week trading Mr. Donlin's Hewett property in the east part of town to Henry Glass for his 80-acre farm, four miles east of Hopkins, the property going in at $2,500 and the farm at $8,000. Possession will be given this fall, and in the meantime Mr. Glass will move to town and Mr. Donlin will be buying up a string of good milch cows, it being his intention to convert his new possessions into a first class dairy farm, employing a man by the month to look after it.—Hopkins Journal.

IN MARYVILLE

The Evidence is Supplied by Local Testimony.

If the reader wants stronger proof than the following statement and experience of a resident of Maryville, what can it be?

Mrs. J. B. Kissinger, 707 E. Second street, Maryville, says: "I suffered from kidney trouble for some time. I had awful pains through my hips. I was tired out and weak and had such bearing down pains in my back and sides that I couldn't rest well at night. A few boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills relieved the pains and my health picked up."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Kissinger had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

'WOLF' NOW PRISON TAILOR

David Lamar, Serving Two Years in Atlanta for Impersonating Congressman.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Atlanta, Ga., June 15.—David Lamar, "the Wolf of Wall Street," is learning to sit cross-legged and thread a needle.

At the Federal prison, where he has been interned for two years for impersonating a congressman, he has been put to work in the tailor shop, and at the end of his term Warden Zerbst expects to have produced another experienced designer and cutter.

With him in the tailoring establishment will be "Lupo, the Wolf," noted counterfeiter, whose escapades in the Italian underworld of New York, are also drop stitches in the history of that city.

Mrs. Ralph Eversole returned today from Kansas City, where she has been visiting her father.

This Is a Sale of More Than Actual Values

More than actual values we claim because in spite of rising costs the prices we are making have been lowered in proportionate scale to the original costs of months ago. Now men and boys will be able to obtain their clothing at prices which are bound to appeal to them.

JUNE 17---JULY 3, INCLUSIVE

Rising Costs Confronts Everybody

This is the age of ascending costs, a period of price advancement without a parallel in late history. No detailed informaton is needed to prove this to you---because the effect of higher prices is felt, and is of real concern to all of us. Careful buying and bargain advantages are more desired than ever. This then is the time to take advantage of every opportunity that offers a genuine saving. Remember the time, June 17 to July 3, inclusive

THE REASON FOR THIS SALE

You know how peoples' tastes differ---how one likes this, another that. So we bought to please everybody and we succeeded. That meant buying more of some things than we actually needed. Thus we are offering unusual bargain prices when costs are rising on originals.

"WHERE FRANKNESS REVEALS TO YOU A BUYING OPPORTUNITY."

TRENTON IDEA NOT NEW

BUT GRUNDY COUNTY TOWN USED IT FIRST.

"Get Acquainted With Your Neighbor, You Might Like Him," Now Famous Slogan.

That the Trenton idea isn't an invention, but the steady, substantial growth of the spirit of a community, is the opinion of Profitable Farming magazine, St. Joseph, Mo., a writer for which has been investigating the famous idea recently.

What the idea is, is merely that of accepted and practical neighborliness. It is a breaking down of all class lines, and an inclusion in the activities of a community of all who live and work in and for the community. It didn't spring up in a day, and it grew to be a husky idea before anybody ever took any special and particular notice of it. It got its slogan one day when a skeptical person went into Ben J. McGuire's drug store in Trenton and rather testily asked what the idea was, anyhow.

"Get acquainted with your neighbor; you might like him," barked McGuire, coining the phrase out of the necessity of the moment. And the expression so crystalized and defined the "idea" that it ever since has been used as a slogan.

Someone who traced up the geneology of the idea, found that it had its origin, perhaps, in 1859 when the Grundy county fair was organized, or even before that when Grand River college was established, back in the early forties. When the chautauqua was organized at Trenton, ten years ago, farmers were among the prime movers and backers; the Jewett Norris library at Trenton, exemplified the idea, years before, when Mr. Norris will left money for a library for town and county, and gave the farmer twice as long time on borrowed books. Other enterprises have followed the same trend, until finally the idea was established.

3-LEGGED CHICKEN AT HOPKINS.

Tom Applegate Was Exhibiting Freak on Streets This Week.

Tom Applegate was exhibiting a three-legged chicken on the streets Tuesday. The chick is about two weeks old and has three well developed legs. It may be a new breed able to outrun a Methodist preacher is being started, the normal spring fry having no chance when a clergyman of the denomination just mentioned is around.—Hopkins Journal.

DIDN'T KNOW UNCLE WAS DEAD.

So B. K. Sheffler Came From Pennsylvania to See J. D. King.

B. K. Sheffler of Greensburg, Penn., arrived in Hopkins this morning to visit his uncle, J. D. King, not knowing that he was dead until arriving here. Being in St. Louis to attend the Democratic National convention, he decided to come on to Hopkins and of course was shocked to learn of his uncle's demise. He says on account of war orders, the east is very lively just now.—Hopkins Journal.

RUST GREAT ENEMY

MACHINERY MUST BE PROTECTED FROM WEATHER.

SAVE PRICE OF SHEDS

Implement Men Only Ones Who Gain by Leaving Mower Out all Winter.

When "Uncle Bill," who writes for Profitable Farming Magazine, St. Joseph, Mo., came in from the Pin Oak district the other day where he had seen Pete Potter fixing up his mowing machine with "a hopeless look, a monkey wrench and a piece of wire," Uncle Bill just couldn't contain himself. So he exploded to "Cap," his neighbor.

"Leaving machinery out in the fence corner," stormed Uncle Bill, "is the biggest fool thing of all the fool things that farmers do. Why, there's old Pete Potter who is so poor that he has to steal a ham occasionally in order to get through the winter. And I just noticed this afternoon as I was passing Pete's that his mowing machine that he gave his note for last summer hadn't been in the shed all winter and it looked as if it had been in use for five years and will act worse than that when he gets it into his field tomorrow. That machine will be in the junk pile before Pete gets his note paid, and then he'll be around wanting someone to go on his note to buy another machine."

"It doesn't happen that you are on the present note, does it?" I inquired mildly.

"Well, that's a fact," admitted Uncle Bill, "in a moment of weakness I did sign that paper, being his wife is a relative of my wife's, but the principle is just the same. He had just as well have that machine for fifteen or twenty years if he'd take good care of it."

"Why doesn't he run it into his shed?" I asked.

"Shed? Why, man, Pete hasn't got any shed; says he can't afford one. He could have put up one for $10 last year when Bill Smiley's sawmill was set up down on his land, but he 'lowed that he didn't have time to get out the logs, and so the winter came on, and then it was too cold."

"When you had the same size farm as Pete has now, did you put your machinery in the shed?" I demanded.

"Oh, doggone you, anyhow," raged Uncle Bill, as he got up and stamped indignantly toward home, "you can be the most disagreeable man on occasion that I ever met."

"Ho, ho," thought I to myself, "consistency is, indeed, a jewel." Well, it's all grist for the implement men. It's an ill wind, and so forth."

'TWAS PETER VAN BRUGEN

AND A PECULIAR FELLOW WAS THIS SAME PETE.

Born Sixteen Miles From Preetoria, Lost Four Brothers in Boer War and Roams the World.

He was not a floater, was Pete. Nor was he a bum, a tramp, or any of the things by which a wanderer upon the face of the earth is usually characterized. No, Peter Van Brugen was just a "peculiar fellow."

Pete dropped into town a little more than a week ago and in a few hours, he had been arrested for drunkenness. Having no money he chose to lay out his fine so for a few days he swept the jail and kept the stalls of the fire horses clean with a cheery whistle and a Dutchman's smile.

As soon as his time was up, he was out with a grinder, getting a mower to sharpen or scissors to grind, then he was back and drunk. Then to jail again. This happened several times but suddenly late last week Peter seemed to realize that if he got another sentence the town would be dry when he got out again so he pulled up the Wabash headed as he said, for Shenandoah. For all we know he may be there yet, but it is more probable that he did not remain long in Iowa after learning that the whole state is dry.

But this is not the odd part about Pete. Many a "weary willie" has a fondness for booze. Very few but do. That's why most of them are "Willies." Peter was different. He was born 16½ miles from Preetoria in South Africa of a family of twenty-one and lost four brothers to the English in the Boer war.

He had the evidence by his exact knowledge that he had been in every part of every accessible country in the world. He is intelligent, quick-witted and unusual. Still he chooses to wander from town to town grinding knives and spending what he earns for the best beer he can get.

J. F. Colvin of Omaha is visiting his brother, L. P. Colvin, deputy recorder, here today.
